

ASSEMBLY REVIEWS THIRD TERM VOTE

SEE NEED FOR EARLY MEETING OF CONGRESS

Flood control and Tax Revision Problems Demand
Immediate Attention

COOLIDGE SAYS NOTHING

Legislature Can Do Nothing
Until Committees Meet
and Prepare Reports

(Copyright, 1927, by Post Pub. Co.)

Washington—A new and more insistent note is being sounded in the demand for an early session of congress. Mississippi Valley members are sending urgent messages to their associates on the committees which must frame the flood-control legislation and urging that these committees
meet and begin their hearings in August.

While the president is still non-committal on the subject, and some members of congress have lost their first flush of enthusiasm for an extra session, concrete arguments are being presented which indicate an even greater need for immediate action than was evident when the crest of the flood
was sweeping all before it.

If the engineers report that the funds available are insufficient to close the gaps in the levee system
before the spring rise comes next year, and such a report would not be unexpected, an early session of congress to provide the necessary
money would appear probable.

REPAIR BROKEN LINKS

Senator Harrison, Mississippi, has emphasized the necessity for restoring the broken links in the levees before another season of high water arrives.
The comptroller general struck a severe blow at the hopes of the engineers by his ruling that no funds
from the state treasury are being appropriated to be diverted to work along the Mississippi and its tributaries. It had been planned to take $2,000,000 or more from this fund, if legal. The $10,000, 000 available for Mississippi river
work is not sufficient in the present emergency.

Added to the pressure for repair
work along the central river system
there is the demand for relief for those who still will be homeless when the Red Cross program expires Nov. 1.
This consideration does not include
the plans for better river control, and takes into account only those issues
of more immediate need.

The insistence of Senator Smoot,
chairman of the finance committee,
and of others that an early session
should be called to dispose of revenue
revision, so to make new rates effective next spring on payments to be made on incomes received during 1927,
is another factor tending to make more probable a call for congress to meet in advance of its constitutional convention. But unless the committees which must deal with all this legislation
before it reaches the floor of congress finish their preliminary work it would be idle to convene the entire body.

As matters stand now there is nothing
to place before the law-makers excepting a special appropriation for levee
repairs. Both the flood control committee and the rivers and harbors
committee of the house must hold hearings before any definite program
toward new means of confining the Mississippi river and its tributaries to their banks can be devised. The army engineers have not finished their studies
although they have made preliminary plans. The relief needs after Nov. 1 will not be gauged until an economic survey has been made, and this cannot be undertaken until mid-September.

Present plans do not contemplate a meeting of the ways and means committee to begin consideration of revision of the tax law until after the middle of October. The appropriations committee has not fixed a date for beginning its work.

Until these committees or some of them begin functioning a session of congress would only mark time. The effort of those interested in an early session therefore is now concentrated on getting these committees together
and developments along these lines
may be expected shortly.

BRITISH HOPE GENEVA PARLEY WILL SUCCEED

Foreign Minister's Official Statement Places England in Favor of Disarmament

London—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, making his eagerly awaited statement in the house of commons, Wednesday, on the tripartite naval conference at Geneva
said that the British delegates were returning to Geneva, Wednesday, to continue the negotiations which it was trusting would reach a successful conclusion.

Sir Austen said that it would be improper at this stage to make any detailed explanation of the British proposals or those of the other interested powers.

"The statement I am going to read
is therefore designed only to remove a misunderstanding which it continued uncorrected could not but impede
the prospects of success," continued
the foreign secretary. "His Majesty's government even has been charged with the desire to destroy that equality of sea power as between the United States and the British Empire, which the Washington conference contemplated—a suspicion for which there is no foundation."

The invitation of the president of the United States to take part in the disarmament conference was understood by his majesty's government to be based on the desire to develop the policy of the Washington conference
by diminishing yet further labor and expenditure while maintaining national security.

"With this two-fold aim his majesty's government is in complete agreement
and they desire to measure the merits of every proposal by the degree to which it furthers this two-fold purpose."

Great Britain has no desire to destroy equality of sea power as between herself and the United States, Sir Austen Chamberlain said. He told the house that the British plenipotentiaries which have been consulting the cabinet in London were returning to Geneva to continue the negotiations which it was trusted would reach a successful conclusion.

In the opinion of the British government, he said, there need be no difficulty in reaching a temporary arrangement regarding the immediate future of the difficult question of cruiser building.

Answering a question regarding a statement said to have been widely repeated abroad, that 600,000 tons in cruisers were demanded by the chief British delegate at the beginning of the conference, Sir Austen said that W. C. Bridgman, chief of the British delegation, had never mentioned the

NAVY FLIER WILL TRY TO SET NEW SPEED MARK

Washington—(AP)—In a seaplane
with a newly developed motor, said
to exceed in power any heretofore fashioned, Lieutenant Alford J. Williams, the navy's greatest speed flier,
soon will make an attempt to break
the 258.374 miles an hour record for
the type established last November
by Major Bernard D. Italy in the Schneider cup races.

In order to bring the record back to the United States, Lieutenant Williams, under the international aviation contest rules, must exceed by
the type established last November
which will necessitate a speed of 263
miles an hour.

dent at the palace while King Feri-

he died, to have seen the former queen to a lonely widow. I shall sit

THREE BOYS DROWN ON FISHING TRIP

Bodies Recovered in Turtle Creek Near Beloit After All Night Search

Beloit—(AP)—The bodies of three young boys, missing from home since Tuesday morning, were found in Turtle creek early Wednesday by officers
and relatives after an all night search.
The boys are Byard Pierce, 12, Frederick Stevens, 8, and his brother, Raymond, 12.

Parents became alarmed last night
when they did not return from a fishing trip. A gun and fish pole belonging to one of the boys, was discovered
shortly after the search began. Dragging of the stream resulted in the first body being discovered at 11 o'- clock Tuesday night and the last at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning.

ASK FURTHER PROBE OF TEACHER'S DEATH

Dead Woman's Sister De- clares "Only Half Truth Is Known"

Seattle, Wash.—(AP)—Investigation
of the death of Miss Violet Maude
Payne, music and dancing teacher,
who supposedly drowned last Wednesday after a liquor party aboard
the yacht of F. Creigh Nelson, wealthy broker and clubman, was renewed Wednesday upon the insistence of the dead woman's sister, that "only half the truth is known."

Although a coroner's jury found that Miss Payne's death was by accidental drowning, the sister, Mrs. Mabelle Fielder, expressed her determination to employ private criminologists
in the case.

In the second investigation, deputy coroners halted cremation to have the organs examined.

SENATE KILLS "WET" MEASURE BY LARGE VOTE

Assemblymen Criticize Zim- merman for His Veto of Duncan Beer Bill

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin senate "wet" last week, was "dry" Tuesday night, and the result was the killing of the Polakowski amendment which would have repealed the Severston state prohibition enforcement law.

Last Friday the senate advanced the amendment to engrossment by an 11-10 vote. The measure met defeat
Tuesday night by the surprising vote
of 16-7.

Although the vetoed Duncan beer
bill, legalizing manufacture and sale
of 2.75 per cent beer under Wisconsin
laws, was the subject of a call of the house Tuesday night, the assembly
finally decided to put over consideration of the veto until the next calendar day.

The assembly concurred in the normal school appropriation bill, one of the major financial measures of the session and sent it back to the senate
with an amendment.

The governor's veto of the beer bill met with disfavor among certain as-semblymen, including Baumann, Duncan and Prescott of Milwaukee. Mr.
Baumann declared that the veto went against the wishes and vote of his district.

Duncan charged that the veto was not written by the governor, that some of his veto messages indicated he had not read the bills, and that the beer veto may have been dictated by the Anti-Saloon League. He criticized alleged inconsistencies in the veto message and declared that the governor
had campaigned partially on a wet platform.

Prescott devoted his address to statements that he knew the present
governor was dry and said Zimmerman did not have "backbone enough
to sign the bill."

MOTORS OWNERS SEE U. S. STEEL CONTROL

DuPonts, Dominant in Gen- eral Motors, Buying Steel Stocks

New York—(AP)—A direct community of interest between the United States Steel corporation and General Motors corporation, America's two largest industrial units was visioned
Wednesday by New York newspaper commentators.

The E. I. du Pont de Nemours interests already dominant in General Motors are reported in Wall Street circles to have been quietly buying heavily of United States Steel common. Their holdings acquired in the past few weeks alone being placed by stock exchange brokers at approximately 114,000 shares.

Semi-annual statements issued Tuesday by both the General Motors and the United States Steel show the former concern continues to hold its position of undisputed leadership among industrial and railroad corporations of the world.

General Motors reported net earnings of $123,250,207 for the first half of 1927. United States Steel, its nearest competitor reported total
earnings of $91,625,155 for the same period.

Having become large holders of United States Steel common the du Ponts see their next move, it is understood by financial commentators, will seek representation on the steel corporation's board of directors.

That this will be accomplished with the acquiescence of the steel corporation's Morgan and First National bank
affiliations, Wall street believes, goes without saying as the latter are closely identified with the fortunes of General Motors, both on its directorate
and finance committee.

ARREST YOUNG MAN IN BURGLARY CASE

Ed Verhagen in Jail Charged With Raiding Hammen Home at Kimberly

One arrest was made by a county officer Tuesday in connection with the attempted robbery of the home of John Hammen at Kimberly early Tuesday.

Ed Verhagen, 26, of Kimberly, is being held at the county jail in lieu of $1,500 bond on charges of breaking into a house with the intention of committing a felony and assault with intent to rob. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff John Dey while heading north from Appleton on Highway 47, in a truck. The arrest was made in Black Creek after Sheriff O-to H. Zuehlke had "tipped off" his deputy that Verhagen had been seen on the road.

According to Sheriff Zuehlke, Ver-
hagen was wearing a suit of clothes on which there were paint stains. At the time of the attempted robbery of the Hammen house, it had been freshly painted and the would-be burglar's fingerprints were found on the window sill.

Sergeant James Moore finger print expert of the Appleton police force,
and Assistant District Attorney Stanley Staidt compared Verhagen's fingerprints with those left on the window sill. They believe they are identical.

Information received at the office
of Sheriff Zuehlke is that Verhagen
has served a term in the Green Bay reformatory.

A part of this window sill was taken from the Hammen home to facilitate the comparison of the finger prints.

SANDINO FORCES TRY TO AMBUSH MARINES

Managua, Nicaragua—(AP)—American marines and native constabulary were awaiting orders Wednesday to round down the band of irregulars of the recalcitrant Nicaraguan general, Sandino, which tried to ambush a column
of marines and constabulary under Major Oliver Floyd at San Fernando, Monday.

A number of shots were fired in this attempted attack, a marine and several constabulary men being wounded,
but the irregulars were put out rout
with the loss of several killed and a score wounded.

Military circles expect an action will soon take place between the irregulars
and the marines in which airplanes
will have a part.

SHERIFF INSTRUCTED TO STOP MINE DISORDERS

Columbus, Ohio—(AP)—Governor Don-
ahy, Wednesday instructed Sheriff George Wright, of Columbiana-co., to deputize as many men as necessary to prevent a recurrence of disorder at East Liverpool, in connection with efforts of coal operators to reopen their properties there.

The governor's action followed word from George T. Farrell, attorney for the Seeger Fuel company of Lisbon, who advised that 40 men employed by the company were driven away Monday night by striking union miners.
"Situation was beyond control of Sheriff and he ordered the non-union men to leave," his telegram said.

"Sheriff refuses to furnish any protection to men."

BUD'S MOTHER HURLS DISHES AFTER WEDDING

Enraged at "Pesky" News Reel Men Who Try to Get Pictures of Principles

Grand Anse, Quebec—(AP)—Married
at a picturesque outdoor ceremony,
enlivened by the hurling of crockery
by Mrs. James A. Stillman, at persistent news photographers, Bud Stillman and his woodland bride, the former Lena Wilson, Wednesday were on their honeymoon bound for New York and Europe.

The couple plan to sail on the Olympic at midnight Sunday for a several months' tour of France, Scotland and Italy.

A colorful throng of river folk and well groomed men and women of society witnessed the ceremony at which the young Princeton graduate and scion of one of New York's most wealthy and socially prominent families took as his bride, the humble daughter of the Canadian woods, who celebrated her eighteenth birthday on her wedding day.

The marriage service had just been concluded and the ceremony of cutting the four foot bridal cake was about to start when Mrs. Stillman, mother of the bridegroom, made her descent upon the luckless photographers.

The eight cameramen had been assigned a place outside the lawn fronting the Stillman woodland lodge, but disregarding warnings had pressed closer.

BOXES PHOTOGRAPHER'S EARS
Indignant, Mrs. Stillman reached over, soundly boxed the ear of the nearest photographer and pushed over another.

"This is for my friends, not for photographers," she cried. The victims of her attacks were temporarily thrown into confusion and she then spied
across a table three other cameramen
who meanwhile had continued to grind
the scene.

"Out you go, get out of here," she shouted and followed the order with a barrage of crockery and crystal from the well laden table. A plate caught one of the camera men on the side of the head. Another piece crashed through a window. The photographers
then beat a hasty retreat.

The attack was greeted with cheers
and applause by the guests.

The ceremony itself was one of great beauty and solemnity. An altar had been erected on the wide lawn fronting the Stillman home and about
it assembled several hundred guests,
including the country people for miles around.

CATHOLIC PRIESTS PRESIDE
Father Ephraim Lamy, who had known both bride and groom since childhood, was assisted at the Roman Catholic ceremony by Fathers Normand and Deslites.

The fifth regiment Royal Highlanders band of 50 pieces, from Montreal,
broke into the strains of "Lohengrin,"
as Mrs. Stillman and Mrs. John Wilson, mother of the bride walked down
a lane of ribbons. James A. Stillman, Sr., the bridegroom's father followed
and then came "Bud" with his best man, Fowler McCormick, of Chicago.

Then came Miss Edith Wilson, sister of the bride followed by the bride
on the arm of her brother, James Wilson, who gave her in marriage.

The bride appeared sweetly charming in a gown of white chiffon. She wore a pearl and crystal ornament in her hair and as her only jewelry, wore a platinum chain, the gift of the bridegroom.

The marriage ceremony was that of the Roman Catholic church. Prayers in English were intoned by Father Normand.

Following the ceremony the guests
formed a long line to shake hands
with the bridegroom and many to kiss
the bride.

Dancing on a specially erected pavilion to the music of the kilites band
and to violins and accordions concluded the festivities. The old square dances in which the village men and women mingled with the society people from New York and other cities
were the most popular.

A net has been stretched across the river about five miles below the rapids. A human chain, workmen of the crew engaged in construction of the dam, waded through the shallow water Wednesday morning searching for the other two bodies. The dam will be able to hold the water for a couple of hours longer and in that time it is expected the other bodies will be recovered.

No date for the inquest had been set
Wednesday morning.

EVA TANGUAY WEDS PIANO PLAYER; CALLS HIM "LUMP OF GOLD"

Hollywood, Cal. — (AP) — Eva Tanguay, who for two decades has been famous as a singer-dancer and vaudeville comedienne, occupied "honeymoon cottage" here Wednesday with Alexander Booke, her accompanist.

The marriage of Miss Tanguay and Booke, who is known on the vaudeville and concert stage as Allen Parado, was disclosed Tuesday. It took place last Friday at Alhambra, Cal. The marriage license, which was unceremoniously snatched by newspaper men, gave Miss Tanguay's age as 45 and that of her husband as 30. Trouble was encountered in confirming the identity of the two.

The honeymoon house finally capitulated to the reporter's attack, however.

"Mr. and Mrs. Parado at home," was the greeting she gave interviewers last night. "I only wish everybody could have a boy as nice as mine. He's just a regular lump of gold, that's all."

Miss Tanguay had been married once before to John Ford, a dancer. That marriage ended in a divorce.

Hint Of Sadness Creeps Into Eyes Of Boy King

Infant King
Michael of Roumania

Bucharest, Roumania.—(P)—At the age when most youngsters are learning to put their blocks together to spell words, five-year-old Michael of Roumania has been made the ruler of his people.

The lad is the youngest king a European nation has had in recent history, but for the present the duties of the crown will not call him from his toys, for a regency council has been chosen to guide the nation until the infant King Michael is 18. Michael is a grandson of the late King Ferdinand, whom he succeeds, and Queen Marie. His father is Prince Carol, who forfeited the crown by deserting his royal wife, Princess Helene of Greece, Michael's mother, to wed a commoner.

The life of a king promises to be an unusual one for Roumania's infant ruler, just as his life thus far has been unusual—for it had been virtually determined for many months that Michael would ascend to the throne on the death of Ferdinand. Young though he is, the boy speaks English and French as well as the language of his native land, and he is guarded by three nurses, from as many lands. Henceforth he must lead an even more cloistered life, in training for active assumption of the kingship. Already, the Roumanian people say, there is a hint of sadness in his blue eyes.

FEW ROADSIDE SIGNS SEEN FROM HIGHWAYS

Roadside signs, which were driven to cover by a concerted attack upon them by Outagamie-co officers a short time ago, have shown no disposition to "come back" for more punishment.

District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf said Friday morning that while there may be some small signs beside the roads in the country, no large signs have been erected in violation of the law.

The law prohibits any signs, other than traffic signs, warning signals, or other devices, being inside the limit of the highways.

Advertising signs beside the roads are called dangerous because many times they prevent a clear view of the road ahead, and they also detract from the effectiveness of the warning signs.

Menasha—The river front of Menasha park is being converted into one of the beauty spots of the city. The work of filling up the low places with earth from the Menasha Printing & Carton company plant and the Third ward school grounds have greatly improved the appearance of that portion of the park and the lagoon which is to be used by the children for bathing purposes is already in daily use. The bottom and shore of the lagoon has been covered with sand and is an attraction for the youngsters who do their bathing suits daily and play in it. Since being filled in, the entire river front of the park, including the river island, has been leveled off and will be given a top dressing of rich soil and planted with grass seed flowers and shrubbery. The new diving raft which the Kiwanis club is having built will be located just above the lagoon where the water is from 5 to 10 feet deep and will be used by adults. The park never looked more attractive and is in almost daily use for annual and private picnics. The Women's Relief Corps will hold an open air meeting and picnic Thursday; the Kiwanis club will hold its annual picnic Friday; Appleton Ware Works has engaged the park for its employees on Saturday; and on Monday, Aug. 1, the American legion auxiliary will hold its annual picnic.

1,100 SWIMMERS USE
MUNICIPAL BATH BEACH

Menasha—By actual count 1,100 persons have made use of the municipal bathing beach near Waverly since it was opened July 8, according to Henry Sheerin, caretaker. The greatest number in swimming any one day was 102. Eighty-four took a dip Tuesday. Adults are beginning to make use of the bathhouse as well as children and quite a few picnic parties have taken their suppers with them.

Railroad Commission Disallows Claim Charging Unreasonable Rates

Madison—(P)—Cudahy Brothers of Cudahy, Milwaukee suburb, were ordered by the state railroad commission today to apply a new and lower schedule, set up by the commission, for water rates in the suburban city. The order demands that the 10 per cent increase, granted the packing company some time ago, be rescinded, and the new rates made effective for the residents of the suburb.

Several other orders were issued by the commission, which is the state's public utility regulating body. The application of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway company to discontinue certain trains between River Falls and Rice Lake in the months between and including May and September was dismissed.

The commission also dismissed the case of the Menasha Woodware company against the Chicago, Northwestern Railroad, seeking reparation for alleged unreasonable freight rates on logs and bolts used in the wood ware company's business.

The Marinette City Water company and the Merrill City Waterworks company were ordered to "discontinue their present practice of including in charges to fixed capital accounts, amounts equal to a fixed percentage of the direct cost."

DAUGHTER OF MARK HANNA, WHO MAY BE NEXT ILLINOIS GOVERNOR

MRS. MEDILL MCCORMICK

Washington—The daughter of the most skillful political manipulator this country ever saw—Mark Hanna—will probably be a candidate for governor of the state of Illinois at the next Republican primary.

This woman Mrs. Medill McCormick, widow of the former senator from Illinois and known to Republican party leaders as the best woman politician in the nation.

Seated on the veranda of her home in Georgetown, Mrs. McCormick told me of her plans regarding Illinois' next gubernatorial campaign. While she has not definitely promised to run, she made it plain that if she does all other candidates had best prepare for the scrap of their lives.

"It is far too early to prophesy," she said. "Great pressure is being brought on me to run. I'm not prepared to say that I will."

"But I can conceive of an emergency in which I would."

And then Mrs. McCormick disclosed that if she does run it will not be primarily to get the office for herself, but rather to take it away from that talented vote-getter, Governor Len Small. The daughter of Mark Hanna, the president-maker, is determined that Small will never win another term in the governor's mansion at Springfield.

HER CONDITIONS

"Suppose Small is a candidate to succeed himself, as we assume," she went on. "Suppose Attorney General Carlstrom, who ran for attorney general as Small's fair-haired boy four years ago with a campaign promise to cancel the suits against Small, but who now claims to be anti-Small, should be offered as the anti-Small candidate."

"I doubt whether Carlstrom's candidacy would entirely satisfy the anti-Small people."

"Whatever might be said of my candidacy, it could not be said that I am not 100 per cent anti-Small."

"Small will have his organization behind him, Carlstrom may get an organization in Cook county—but I may get a majority of the votes."

In making this tentative prediction Mrs. McCormick is speaking from the viewpoint of the experienced, practical politician. She knows that very strange things do happen in Illinois politics.

TO BEGIN WITH, she has a brilliant record of her own and is widely known. The mantles of her father and her late husband would fall on her shoulders. Many Democratic women probably would vote for her in the Republican primary. Labor should be sympathetic for Mark Hanna was friendly to labor and Mrs. McCormick, as an active member of the Women's Trade Union League, has vigorously supported child labor and other labor legislation.

The farmers might help, too; for, not even Lowden is more of a dirt farmer than Mrs. McCormick, who runs her own 2000-acre farm, sells hogs and steers, markets 1400 quarts of milk daily and is an active director of the Holstein-Friesian Association.

In addition to these elements, there is a large floating anti-Small vote that probably would go her way. On top of this, Mrs. McCormick would get strong newspaper support.

"If I do run I'll have the shortest platform on record," she added. She refused, however, to say just what it would be.

Mrs. McCormick's political career began before woman suffrage became a fact. When the suffrage amendment went into effect she became chairman of the Republican Women's Executive Committee, working with the Republican National Committee and organizing women voters throughout the country.

"Women will increase in public office very slowly," she says. "They are not generally interested in that. They are more interested in educating themselves politically."

WOMAN PRESIDENT? NO

Mrs. McCormick laughs at the suggestion of certain advanced feminists that either she or Mrs. Alice Roosevelt

Longworth might be a presidential candidate next year.

"I don't expect to live to see the time when a woman can be a candidate for the presidency," she says. "Women have a long way to go in politics. It is one of the most difficult and intricate occupations."

"No, I'll not tell you what I'd do if I were president, because I'm not going to be president."

"Let's be serious!"

cence and flickering candles cast an eerie pall over the room.

The queen, whom Americans so recently knew by her vivacious, youthful animation and glowing personality, now was a stricken tragic figure, conscious not only of the loss of her royal consort, but of her throne and prestige.

"My critics and adversaries say I am an ambitious woman, that I wanted the regency, that I wished to be a modern Cleopatra, that I wished to be queen," she went on. "This is a cruel tale. I wish only to be allowed to carry on the king's work for the good of all Rumania. In any station of life when a husband dies, it is the duty of the widow to stay at home and look after the children. The king was the father of the Rumanian people. I am their mother. Surely, they still want me to guide them, not only as queen, but as a mother. With the king gone, I shall have a twofold duty to perform for my country—his own and mine."

DIDN'T DISCUSS THRONE

"Throughout the king's long recurring illnesses his mind was perfectly clear and normal. Had I wanted to succeed him upon his death as absolute ruler of Rumania, I need only to have asked him and his choice would have been supreme. But as a matter of fact, we never once discussed the question of the fact of the fact that from time to time various persons and political groups urged me to become sole regent."

Longworth might be a presidential candidate next year.

cool," he added, as the old man, trembling with excitement, tried to scramble upon his horse and hopelessly entangled his foot in the stirrup. "A man's like an engine. Much better when he's cool. Half an hour's a long time. Don't be stampeded."

He stooped down and with a quick movement freed the other's foot. The old man clambered onto his mount. Elise, too, leaped into her saddle. "I'm going with you," she said to Vilak. "We can't let these poor people on the outskirts die, like beasts. Two of us can cover much more territory. Hannah can take Tinky up to Chacos. She's proved she can take care of of him. It's only a few minutes."

"All right. We've no time to argue. Come on."

She kissed the baby quickly, then spoke a few words to the driver of the dogcart. The vehicle rattled off.

The old man looked confusedly after it, an instant, bewilderingly began to follow it, then turned and came awkwardly galloping back to Vilak. The three riders sped toward the murmuring town square. As they reached it, a public-struck parade began to sweep past them.

Here a donkey struggled heroically to trot through the sloughs with its fat master and screaming mistress clinging hysterically to its back; here three squealing pigs lurched ahead of a grunting negro, driving them on with a club; there an Indian woman with huge ornaments in her lips and eurs scurried through the mud shouting at the five naked and shivering children who ran before her. So absorbed were the terrorized villagers in their headlong flight that they hardly saw the three riders coursing past, and Vilak was constantly bringing his horse to a violent halt in order that he might not run them down. Elise swept her mount round a bed toppled into a street by some frenzied household. "Where are you going?" she flashed to Vilak. "Prentiss' place," he snipped. "He'll get it the worst down there, he's so low. Let's turn from there just as quickly as to Chacos from here and be just as safe."

"He heard her draw a sharp breath. 'I realize that you don't like him. I don't either. But however bad he is, we can't let him drown. No one else in the town will think of warning him, he's so hated. After all, he is a fellow human being. All grudges are done in a case like this. It's the jungle law as well as the human.' She stooped to swoop safely under a low-hanging branch. 'You're right. Of course we've got to do it. I was drifting into the family feud state of mind, I guess."

They swept on, and began to leave the city behind. Here and there Vilak on one side of the road and Elise on the other checked their horses for a moment before a miserable cabin of rushes to shout to the occupants the news of the disaster. But in each case an answering shout, or kinkly head bobbing frantically through a door told them they had already been notified.

"Odd," he called to Elise as he bobbed furiously up and down. "No one's been overlooked. They've been quite systematic in carrying the news. Couldn't have done better if one man had taken charge of it. Never knew these backslapping natives to have so much method and energy. It's astonishing."

bouncing along in a clattering ox cart, through a pack of racing, wild-eyed dogs who had been infected with the human panic and were fleeing from they knew not what; then over the wooden bridge they had crossed so slowly a few hours before. Vilak looked down at the narrow stream below. "That's odd, too," he murmured. "Water looks lower than it did this morning."

They took the crossroads paralleling the railroad tracks and galloped on.

They rode off, Vilak and the old man on horseback on either side of her, the carriage close behind. They reached the wharf and dismounted. Six o'clock arrived without the hoarse, prolonged whistle that usually marked the arrival of the steamer at the bar a mile up the river. Seven o'clock. Still no whistle, no trail of black smoke. Seven-thirty. The equatorial night began its swift descent. Eight o'clock. Total darkness and the boat nowhere in sight.

Elise flushed impatiently through the mud of the tiny dock. "We'll have to camp here all night, I guess," she said. "I don't know whether anybody else is, but I'm getting hungry. Extremely hungry. And irritable."

She peered up the river anxiously, then began pacing the dock again. Suddenly she turned as a confused murmur of excited voices drifted up from the silent, darkened town square a quarter of a mile away. A clatter of hoofs sounded up the road. The noise became louder.

Vilak's eyes narrowed. "Wonder what that is," he murmured. He took a bit of betel. "Think I'll go have a look. Back in a hurry." He spurred into the darkness.

A few moments later he was speeding back. "The dam at Avilos has burst," he said quietly. "A wall of water forty feet high is sweeping down the valley. But it won't reach here for half an hour or more. You and Nanny hurry up to Chacos Hill. Elise and the old man looked at him incredulously, for his voice was even as though he were relating some placid story in the corner of a dim lighted room. He had barely finished speaking when a horseman came speeding down the road shouting in frenzied Portuguese that death was upon the inhabitants if they did not flee. He vanished. Windows opened violently, lights appeared, animals grunted, men cursed, bedlam broke out in the street.

"You and Nanny go to Chacos Hill," Vilak repeated. "With Tinky."

His words roused Elise from her daze. She caught the bridle of her horse. "What are you going to do?" she asked.

"Go and warn some of the people in the outlying districts here. Don't get excited, Nanny. Keep cool, keep cool," he added, as the old man, trembling with excitement, tried to scramble upon his horse and hopelessly entangled his foot in the stirrup. "A man's like an engine. Much better when he's cool. Half an hour's a long time. Don't be stampeded."

Every Week Safety Week

During the last two years drivers of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) vehicles crossed more than 85,000,000 railroad crossings without a single fatality.

That record is the result of continuous concentrated work. The safety campaign of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been steady and persistent—carried on day after day and week after week and year after year.

By means of unceasing effort and the splendid cooperation of all employees, the impressive safety record of this company has been accomplished.

The driver of every Standard Oil Company (Indiana) vehicle is conscious of his own tremendous personal responsibility.

This realization of the responsibility involved is a necessary part of safety education. As motorists and pedestrians are made conscious that safety is their own daily responsibility, accidents will be reduced.

The situation is more serious than the average person realizes. Twenty-two thousand people are killed and 600,000 injured annually by automobiles, according to the News Tribune of Detroit. The quotation below is from an editorial of this paper for May 9th.

"There is still an imperative need of more systematic study of the means of preventing or gradually reducing automobile accidents."

"It has been shown that only a small percentage of the accidents which happen are due to defects in the cars or can rightly be called unavoidable. For that reason the situation is not hopeless nor incapable of control."

"But it requires vigorous and effective work throughout the entire country and the cooperation of all drivers and all pedestrians, and all factors of our national life, including schools, civic and public organizations, parents and children."

The Duluth News Tribune has vividly presented the safety problem that confronts this country and has made a sensible suggestion for its solution.

Each week during safety week automobile accidents are far less numerous in the United States than they are during any other week of the year, according to the report of the National Safety Council.

This shows what can be done by making people "safety conscious." Every week must be made safety week. The cooperation of "all factors of our national life" must be enlisted. Industry can help.

The conspicuous success of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employees in keeping safety rules is not surprising, considering the fact that every day in their business they are trained to think of others.

This company is pledged to the promotion of safety by the very character of its organization.

This company exists to serve the people of the Middle West, and its active part in the humanitarian effort to reduce unnecessary loss of life is in accord with the spirit of the organization.

A DANGEROUS SITUATION

We do not vouch for the agricultural statistics given below, but we accept them as substantially correct. They are disclosed in a survey made by Dr. Henry C. Taylor, of the Institute of Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities of Northwestern University. Dr. Taylor was engaged in his research work nearly a year and it shows, among other things, that agriculture's share of the nation's income in 1926 was the lowest on record, amounting to 9.7 per cent. It is less than half the farmer's income for the five-year period, 1909 to 1913, when it averaged 20.7 per cent of the national aggregate. For the last three years the agricultural income has continued to descend, dropping from 10.6 in 1924 to 10.2 in 1925 and less than 10 in 1926.

Farm bankruptcies, according to Dr. Taylor's survey, have occurred more rapidly in this period than ever before. He estimates that during 1926 there were 444 farm bankruptcies for every working day. As a result of this depression the agricultural population shrank 2,000,000 persons between 1920 and 1925, notwithstanding the population of the United States as a whole increased 8,500,000. Finally, it is shown by Dr. Taylor that 81,000,000 acres of land went out of agricultural use between 1920 and 1925, and that the land which has been kept under cultivation is being farmed less intensively than before the World war.

No one can view these figures and their significance with indifference. No one can deny that they are portentous. It is evident that this process cannot go on much longer without impairing the economic stability and independence of the United States. Should the present rate of shrinkage continue we may soon reach the point where a poor crop will mean an actual shortage of food for the American people.

It is a situation which demands action, and while we do not think the government, through legislation or any other means, can of itself restore agriculture to its former position and prosperity, nevertheless it may be of assistance in directing the farmer to a correct solution of his ills and in cooperating with him for his economic recovery.

Agriculture has not kept pace with other economic groups in modern organization because of its vast number of units and the lack of local nuclei for initiating organization. The result is that the farming industry has lagged behind and is holding the bag. Its plight is a challenge not only to the government of the United States, but to all the other economic groups, not one of which can remain permanently prosperous with the country agriculturally sick. We can afford to make experiments for the healing of the patient that are nationally expensive. There is no amount, even into the billions, that we cannot afford to throw into the scales for the healthful recuperation of agriculture. It is clearly up to the government to accept the proposals of agricultural leaders, no matter how unscientific and illogical they may appear to be, unless it has a positive program of its own which carries reasonable promise of affording relief. Both the government and the business branches of the country must respond to the farmers' call.

A KING IS PINCHED

The King of Belgium, Albert by name, was arrested for speeding in the city of Spa, Belgium, a day or so ago.

Spa insists on a speed limit of 10 kilometers, or about six miles an hour, and since it is impossible for any continental car to go that slowly, Spa is quite able to pay for good roads by speed fines.

King Albert seemed to be doing a day-time Haroun Al Raschid stunt by driving a friend's car. However, even when assured that his victim was the king, the cop continued making out his report and the king will be fined unless the communal court relents.

There are very few towns in America, Democracy and Republic, where the town mayor, councilman, leading ministers or bootleggers can really be brought to time for speeding. And one shudders at the very thought of President Coolidge being arrested anywhere for anything!

But then, we're only a Democracy. The king got arrested and had to take his deserts along with the humblest citizen in a Monarchy. There's a difference.

THE ROUMANIAN THRONE

Because of the peculiar characteristics of monarchical government, a deposed ruler and his offspring, or a crown prince or heir presumptive who has renounced the succession, becomes a source of potential danger. If he is ambitious he may lead a movement for his restoration, and if he is pliant or unscrupulous he may easily become the tool of politicians who wish to use him for their advancement and selfish ends. There have been numerous instances of European nations reduced to civil war by precisely these elements. Because of the deep-seated belief in royal prerogatives and the impropriety of human interference with them, it is always easy to excite popular sympathy for a claimant to the throne.

Already a movement of this kind is in progress in behalf of Crown Prince Carol of Roumania, who, because of his escapades with women, agreed to renounce his right to the throne. His first breach was to desert from the front while his regiment was in action in order to clope with an untitled Roumanian with whom he had a love affair. He was arrested, charged with treason and after a short imprisonment rejoined his morganatic wife. The king and queen influenced him to permit this marriage to be annulled and to take for his wife Princess Helene of Greece, to whom was born Prince Michael and for whom a regency has just been set up in Roumania.

Carol's next adventure was to clope with another untitled Roumanian girl, and this caused such a scandal that it was demanded of him to renounce either her or the throne. He chose the latter alternative, and his renunciation was accepted by both the king and parliament. Carol's claims have therefore been extinguished and the succession lawfully passed over his head to his offspring.

But this will not prevent intrigue and conspiracy to restore him to the throne. There are keen rivalries and bitter differences in the internal politics of the nation. The opposition to the Bratianos, though a minority is nevertheless vigorous and resourceful. Carol is said to be popular with the army and the peasantry. If he will lend himself to their schemes he can easily be utilized by ambitious politicians for the disturbance of Roumania. He does not appear to be personally concerned about the throne, but that does not mean that he cannot be "handled" by those who would profit by his restoration.

A NEW CAREER

Miss Pattie Field, the only woman vice consul in the world, has returned to Denver for her first visit since she was appointed to the position in Amsterdam about two years ago and she has come back with enthusiasm for her job and with the prediction that diplomacy offers a splendid field for feminine talent, particularly in the positions where the virtues of painstaking care and sympathy and courtesy count.

Miss Field believes that the colleges can, perhaps, be the most vital force in introducing women to this attractive field. It is her view that they could bring the proposition to the attention of students by offering specialized training pointing to diplomatic service.

But she herself has put her finger on the greatest drawback to women in diplomatic service, the urge to talk. "The state department," she says, "frowns on foreign representatives who let slip details of its inner workings. Women in such positions, obviously, are particularly bound by these restrictions, in the face of the belief that women are prone to—well, talk."

Perhaps the reputation is undeserved and is unfortunate. But the fact that Miss Field succeeded in her effort to enter the consular service and that her record is a fine one may pave the way for more of her sex to enter what should be a most attractive field.

In the diplomatic consular service there are certain duties which women are particularly fitted to discharge. The routine work, unspectacular, but essential, comes under this heading, and aiding travelers and assisting in the examination of immigrants are other duties suited to women. Given a fair chance there is no doubt that women would be of value in this service.

NOISES OF THE NIGHT

Some of us sleep quietly enough and some of us are boisterous about it. Let us consider some of these eerie sounds, these snores, snorts, moans, groans, mutterings and inarticulate cries that disturb the audience, though harmless enough for the performer, sick or well.

Snoring, like murder, may be any of three degrees. First degree snoring is just an exaggeration of the normal nasal murmur. In fact this is almost normal, for most persons announce their sleep in this manner. One can usually hear when one's neighbor falls asleep at the movies. If you are inquisitive, try listening to your own breathing when you are composing yourself to sleep. First degree snoring calls for no remedy unless it disturbs into something more heinous, namely:

Second degree snoring. This is that maddening gurgle or rattle emitted with each inspiration when the soft palate is utterly relaxed and flaps in the wind. Now first degree snoring is due to the normal physiological relaxation of the lining of the nasal passages, an occurrence natural in sleep. Every one knows how the skin of a sleeping person becomes warm and flushed with blood. This same normal congestion occurs in the lining of the nasal passages. When it is exaggerated, or when there is already some lesion or disease condition present, the congestion renders nasal breathing inadequate, and so the sleeper supplements his air supply by resorting to mouth breathing for part of his needed air. With some air entering through the nasal channel and some entering through the oral channel, the soft palate, or its rear free edge tends to vibrate between the two currents of air. That produces the second degree snoring. It is fairly well known, completely, so that no air at all can enter through the nose, and you stop the snoring for the time being.

The third degree of snoring is stertor, and this noise, at least to the educated ear, is the most alarming of all noises of the night. While stertor may occur for brief moments in fairly well snoring, at least folks who are not under medical care, it generally spells grave illness, such as apoplexy, uremia, diabetic coma, fractured skull, alcoholic coma or sunstroke. The characteristic feature of stertor or third degree snoring is a blowing out of the cheeks and a puffing with each expiration.

What to do in cases of snoring depends on the degree of the case.

For first degree snoring the best thing you can do is to suggest to the offender if it amounts to an offense, a vacation, or perhaps a general health examination. The way to do this without giving offense is very simple: Offer to pay for it as a gift to your friend.

For second degree snoring, a series of treatments for the nasal passages will generally help to overcome the trouble, if there is a lesion discoverable by proper nose and throat examination. If the flabbiness is only a local manifestation of a general state, why, the poor boob needs a little physical training, open air sleeping, less clothing, less bed clothing, perhaps shorter hours of sleep, or restriction of carbohydrates.

For third degree snoring, or stertorous breathing, call a physician or an ambulance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bimbo Issues Challenge

I beg to challenge Mrs. O. B. who told in your column about how healthful it has proved for her baby to sleep out of doors. All winter long my baby spent all the day at an open side window with the sun streaming in on her and she has never worn a hat, only a light but warm sweater and a robe. Usually when she woke she kicked off the robe and waved her bare feet in the sunshine. She has had just one case of colic or cry, which I can trace to a visitor who had it. I'll wager Mrs. O. B.'s baby can't hold a candle to our bimbo. We're rooting for you and wish you all success. I have a nephew, school boy in grade every Friday night with epson salts, willy nilly. I put my foot down finally, and you backed me up, and since then my brother and sister have not had to suffer either. My baby is 7 1/2 months old and weighs 16 1/2 pounds. When he'll be 18 months I shall treat him like a king.

Answer—Now is Mrs. O. B. cares to take up your challenge, perhaps we can stage a contest. Anyway, I'm happy to know that here we have a couple of bimbos as happy as kings and as hard as nails. (Copyright John F. Dille company.)

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

"THE THREE SISTERS"

A few years ago May Sinclair wrote a novel which she called "The Three Sisters." Since it was published soon after she had written a biographical study of the Bronte sisters and since the three sisters of her story live in an English house, like the Bronte girls, it was generally assumed at the time that they were the originals.

Although it is, in my opinion, May Sinclair's best novel, it falls short of the fascination of the lives of the real "three sisters" in the real English house at Haworth. In one sense there is no sadder story in all English literature than that of their brief, frustrated lives. In another sense there is hardly a more triumphant story. Their home became almost a charnel house of disease and death, but in spite of this they lived through to permanent fame—at least two of the three, and all three of them at least won publication.

Perhaps there is not another case in all English literature of a whole family wanting to become authors. That was literally the case with the Bronte family. The girls and one boy, "The boys" tried first. He wrote poetry and prose tales and having no way of approach to publishers, he took his courage in both hands and wrote a letter to Wordsworth, who was at that time poet laureate and who was regarded as the greatest poet in England. The boy asked for advice as to how to enter upon a literary career, enclosing some of his poems. Wordsworth sent a kindly reply but of course could not give very much advice. That was as far as the boy got in a literary career.

Charlotte Bronte next tried about the same thing, only she wrote to Southey, then looked upon as a much greater poet than today. He gave her a rather cold shower of discouragement, which she took in good part. Her chance of literary success was finally won out where her brother failed. In due time, after years of labor, she became the author of "Jane Eyre," "Shirley," and "Villette."

The other two sisters, Emily and Anne, also both wanted to be writers. It never seems to have occurred to either one that a career as wife and mother might be open to them. Their sole aim, as of all the members of this remarkable family, was to win recognition as writers.

And at least one of these remaining two wrote a remarkable book.

Emily Bronte deserves a place in English fiction only second to her sister Charlotte because of her novel, "Wuthering Heights." She was a strange, gloomy girl. Delicate in health, as were all the members of this family, she was almost morbidly abnormal. She was in the habit of wandering over the moors around Haworth by herself. She knew every inch of them intimately, and every bird and flower and weed. When taken away from her native moors to school she fell ill and would have died if she had not been allowed to come home. The isolated personage and its surrounding moors were her only possible home. She saw no one, talked to no one except the members of her own family; even to them she was distant and somewhat standoffish. Though sick to death, she refused wandering to see a doctor until about an hour before the end, and then it was too late.

Out of this strange, lonely nature came one of the strangest books in English literature. Read without a knowledge of its background "Wuthering Heights" is repellent. Many have utterly condemned it because they felt it was too starkly gloomy. But it came sincerely out of the heart of a sincere but strange nature. Had she lived, it is not at all unlikely that she would have done better work than her more famous sister. "Wuthering Heights" undeniably has great power.

Then there was the third sister, Anne. You get the impression that she was the least literary of the trio but even she wrote and published two books. In another sense, she might have been simply domestic, but she seems to have been swept into the literary current by her sisters. The books had little success and today they are of interest only because written by Charlotte Bronte's sister.

All the members of this remarkable family died before they had reached middle life. What would they have done if they had had time?

A wooden candle that has been holding six babies at a time has been abandoned at the weathered end of a Alaska. The island and individual sleeping places for the tots installed.

More children are killed from swallowing pins than by unknown guns, according to statistics recently compiled.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Fredric J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine and does not express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.

Q. How did the expression filthy lucre, come into use? H. G. 2.

A. Filthy lucre is a phrase which was popularized during the early days of the construction of the Panama Canal. It was said of an engineer that he retired from his connection with the Canal because of the lure of money—filthy lucre.

Q. Is it possible to heat a whole house electrically in an economical way? H. H.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that house heating electrically at present prices for coal, oil, or wood, and electrical energy is excessively expensive, where there is weather that requires continuous winter heating. There have been some experiments made in Seattle and Spokane, Washington. A nine-room house that cost about $87 per year to heat when wood was burned, cost $225 when electricity was used at three cents per kWh. To heat a six-room house with coal cost $60, to heat with electricity at three cents per kWh, would cost $160.

Q. Why is Athens called "The City of the Violet Crown"? T. L.

A. The allusion is to the sunset light on the Acropolis.

Q. What will remove sticky fly paper from a table and the cane seat of a chair? M. T. S.

A. Sticky fly paper may be removed by rubbing with gasoline or alcohol. Either of these agents will, however, remove the varnish.

Q. How long has the Mississippi River been known to civilization? A. L.

A. It was discovered by De Soto in 1541.

Q. How far is it from John O. Grant's house, Laude End? E. X.

A. Laude End is a point in the extreme southwest corner of Cornwall, England. John O'Grant's house is on Duncansby Head, the northeastern extremity of Scotland. The distance between the two is 934 miles.

Q. How is pine forest perfume made? F. M. B.

A. Pine forest perfume is made of 4 ounces of oil of pinus picea, 1/2 ounce of oil of lavender, 1/2 ounce of bergamot, and 1/2 ounce of lemongrass.

Q. How can a porch fiber rug be touched up? W. M.

A. In recoloring a porch fiber rug any dye used on cotton material may be used. Dissolve the dye in boiling water and apply it to the rug by means of a brush.

Q. Why isn't liquid air on the market? E. J. S.

A. Liquid air is not an article of commerce as it can not be stored for any length of time. It is prepared in research laboratories and the laboratories of large universities.

Q. When was the megaphone invented? H. U. H.

A. Thomas A. Edison announced the invention of the megaphone in October, 1877.

Q. How near full does a 6-inch drain the get when working to capacity? L. E.

A. The Division of Agriculture, Engineering says that a line runs eight-tenths full when it is at its maximum capacity.

Q. What kind of feathers should be used on arrows that are to be shot from a bow? A. C.

A. The best feathers are from the main pinion of the turkey's wing. They should be stiff and cut to exactly the same shape and size and selected equidistant about the shaft-point.

Q. What are the mottoes of the Epworth League and Christian Endeavor Societies? F. D. T.

A. The motto of the Epworth League is "Look up—lift up" and of the Christian Endeavor Society, "For Christ and the Church."

Q. When did Jacksonville, Florida, last have a yellow fever epidemic? B. J.

A. It occurred in 1855.

Jensen, physical director of the local association. All Appleton swimmers interested are urged to see him at the Y. M. C. A.

The meet is divided into two sections, a junior for boys of under 18 and a senior for men of 18 and over. The state physical education committee of which Joseph Horner, Jr., of Green Bay is chairman, has charge of the meet though it is handled through the Madison, Beloit and Janesville associations.

The contest is held during the regular athletic training period of the camp for high school boys at which George Little, T. E. Jones, Dr. W. E. Meanwell and Glen Thistlethwaite of the University of Wisconsin coaching staff are instructors. These men will handle the swimming meet, under the direction of Jack La Master, camp swimming instructor.

There also is a one-mile swim open to seniors and juniors, which does not score points for team honors. This will be held at 10 in the morning and the other events at 2:30 in the afternoon.

The American Swimming association rules will govern the meet which is open to any amateur athlete in the state, with amateur rating defined by the national association rules. Association employed officers may not compete. Entries close with Jack La Master, Madison Y. M. C. A., on Aug. 24. Fees are 50 cents for the first event and 25 cents each for additional for association members and 75 and 25 cents for non-members. In addition there is a fee of 50 cents for the mile race and if only the mile swim is entered the fee is 75 cents.

Points will be scored as five for first, three for second and one for third. Heats will be run in the dash events if the number of entrants make it necessary. Silver medals will be given for first in all events except the relay and mile. Ribbons will be given to second and third place winners and no awards to the relay winners. Team awards will be given the teams that win the junior and senior meets. Gold, silver and bronze awards will be given for the mile event.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: AT NO TRUMP, WITH QUEEN AND ONE SMALL IN DUMMY, AND ACE-TEN AND ONE SMALL IN CLOSED HAND, PLAY SMALL FROM DUMMY. Yesterday's Hand

South Declarer, contract one No Trump; what four cards should be played to the first trick?

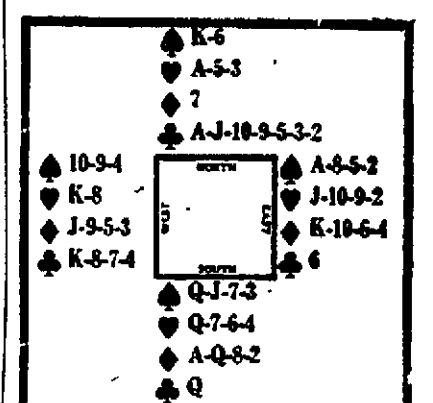

My answer slip reads as follows: To the first trick West should lead the Five of Clubs; North (Dummy) should play the Trey of Clubs; East should play the King of Clubs; South (Closed Hand) should play the Seven of Clubs.

West opens with the fourth best of his long suit, Dummy, holding Queen and one small, would play the Queen

if South held Ace and one small or Ace and two small; but as South has A-10 and one small, two tricks in the suit are assured by playing small from Q-X, whereas only one trick might be made if the Queen were played.

South does not win the trick although the Queen would be good in Dummy on the second trick. By ducking, he can hold up the Ace until the third round; and then, if the adverse Club division be 5-3 (as is probable), and East win the second Diamond trick taken by his side, he will not have a Club to lead. Note the difference in the result if South win the first trick.

Today's Hand

South Declarer, contract one No Trump; what four cards should be played to the first trick?

Bridge Answer Slip of July 27th: To the first trick West should lead the Five of Clubs; North (Dummy) should play the Trey of Clubs; East should play the King of Clubs; South (Closed Hand) should play the Seven of Clubs.

PIGEON OWNERS PLAN
SEVEN FALL FLIGHTS

Schedule Includes Two Preliminary and Five Timing Flights

Kaukauna—Seven flights are carded for the fall flying schedule of the Kaukauna Pigeon association according to announcement made Tuesday. The schedule carries over until the second week in September and has two preliminary flights and five timing flights.

The first race will be held Saturday morning, Aug. 6, from Hortonville and will be followed by another flight the following Tuesday, Aug. 9, from New London. These two flights are not for time and are but preliminaries. The first timed flight will be from Waupaca Sunday, Aug. 14. Timed flights will then be held every week until Sept. 11.

Last spring there was some discussion among members of the association regarding the awarding of a cup for the bird having the best average flight time. It was decided not to award a cup for the best time last spring but to award a trophy this fall to the member having a young bird with the best time for distance over 200 miles.

Officials of the club are up in arms over the shooting of several young birds while on practice flights near Kaukauna. At least two birds have not returned from flights and another has returned wounded. Anyone caught shooting the birds is liable to a fine of not less than $10 and not more than $50.

A loft survey will be made this fall among the members of the association. This survey is to aid in computing the correct time for members flying birds above the time to the central point in the city.

MRS. FRANK DINDORE
BOX 239, LANCASTER, OHIO

I was on a visit to my sister in Udon, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. FRANK DINDORE, Box 239, Lancaster, Ohio.

I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest births she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—Mrs. EDWARD PRISING, 614 Sturgis Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

World's Greatest Circus Arrives Here Tomorrow Morning

WELL, youngsters, it's almost here. Sometime between midnight and dawn the Greatest Show on Earth, otherwise known as Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined, will arrive from Madison.

The advance guard of agents and ground engineers state that all is in readiness for the momentous invasion. At the show grounds stakes have been set out to indicate exactly where the many tents are to be located including the "world's biggest big-top." Down the center of the mammoth main tent area smaller pegs have been driven to indicate the positions to be occupied by the two additional circus rings. For as every youngster knows, the big show is now using five rings in place of the usual three. Still other pegs mark the location of two huge towers like affairs on which it is promised that no less than thirty-two elephants and a strangely assorted company of ninety zebras, camels and horses will be seen drilling, marching and performing at one time.

As the "twenty-four hour" agent explained, more than usual care had to be exercised in selecting just the right ground area for these immense displays and for the hippodrome track on which 200 horses maneuver in the "Tourney of Jewels." The agent denied the report that Pawah, the sacred white camel from Burma subsists solely upon orchid petals. He admitted that Pawah was extremely fond of Burmese pastry specially prepared by his supreme keeper, Dr. S. D. Po Min, but was no more adverse to haled hay than any one of the forty odd elephants of common breed who will be seen in performance here tomorrow.

With five rings and numerous stages so located as to distribute displays along the entire length of the world's biggest circus tent, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey program of 1927 is far more extensive than in any previous year. Features have been gathered from every part of the world. These number such enormous displays as ninety zebras, camels and horses performing in kaleidoscopic mazes on a mammoth pedestal. On a similar series of ascending platforms, thirty-two of the forty-three elephants perform simultaneously with the topmost of the ponderous actors waltzing twenty feet above the ground. Prior to this, five herds of elephants do stunts in five separate rings. At another time the rings are given over to five companies of liberty horses, and at another juncture in the program 200 of the show's 900 horses execute intricate maneuvers in the "Tourney of Jewels."

More than 800 of the world's foremost acrobats, bareback riders, ground and lofty gymnasts, high-wire artists and super-athletes are included in the 1,600 people carried on tour. And little folks will be delighted to learn that the addition of a score of European clowns has increased the funmakers to a "jolly hundred."

Among more than seventy bareback riders the serious and hazardous in equestrianism mingles with comedy horsemanship. Principal riders from every country are led by May Wirth, greatest of the Rickenback sisters; the Ediths, Mitzie, McCrackins, Bradnas, Comptons, Christiansens, Mardos and Renees. "Phil, the Marvel," the Brothers Ernestos, Clarence Bruce and others head the galaxy of comedy riders.

number Lillian Leitzel, most famous of all women who perform in the big-top; Alfreda Codona, "Adonis of the Altitudes," in triple somersaults aloft; Miss Winifred, who somersaults from a trapeze to a rope suspended in the mid-air, and Mile. Jenne who is but one of an entire congress of "cloud swimmers" performers. High over head such noted stars of the flying trapezes as the Segristas, the Silbons, the Flavins, Codonas and the Neopolitans people the air in troupes embracing as many as thirty artists in a single display. Fourteen of the world's premier high-wire performers include the Spanish wizard, Con Colleano, who turns both forward and backward somersaults on a thread of steel; Berta Beeson in sensational aerial dances; together with the champions of England, Poland, France and Italy—Meers, Sloan, Maximo and Zitor. Ground gymnasts are led by Brittan's stars, the Rubios; the Argentine wonder acrobats, the Yacopis; the Picchianis from Sorrento, and many others numbering individual troupes composed of from twelve to sixteen performers.

The "novelties of 1927" are more numerous than ever before. Seals ride galloping horses, juggling as they ride. Llamas contest with a company of thirty hurdlers and broad-jumping horses. Ostriches hitched to sulkeys participate in thrilling races. Grayhounds harnessed four abreast and driven by golden zaboons, vie with horsedrawn chariots around the entire hippodrome course. A gorgeously appointed tournament precedes the performance which are to begin at 2 and 8 P. M. The doors to the menagerie of a thousand animals, including Pawah, the sacred white elephant, will open at 1 and 7 o'clock.

CONSTRUCTION PERMITS ISSUED FOR 4 HOUSES

Permits for construction valued at $20,350 were issued by the building inspector during the week from Monday July 18 to Saturday July 23. Seven garages and four residences will be built. Other permits were for remodeling, building basements and porches, etc.

NO SIGN OF EUROPEAN CORN BORER IN COUNTY

Many specimens of corn are examined weekly by Robert Amundson, county agent, in an attempt to keep the European corn borer from Outagamie-co fields. So far no sign has been found of the destructive pest.

The last state legislature imposed a quarantine against shipping ear corn into Wisconsin from other states and in addition the government has quarantine restrictions on areas in which the corn borer has been found. The last session of Congress appropriated $10,000,000 to be used in combatting the spread of the corn borer.

LAWRENCE GRIDDERS TO HAVE "DIRECTED SINGS" THIS FALL

Catlin Inaugurates New Plan To Keep Football Players In Good Spirit

School Singing Director Will Lead Athletes in Popular Selections

Kentucky had its Praying Colonels from Centre college, who became famous almost overnight by trouncing Harvard and other gridiron leaders, and Lawrence college this fall will have its Singing Vikings, Blues, Larries, or whatever the local gridironers call them. For Coach Mark S. Catlin, originator of the no-headgear, no padding idea in this part of the country and one of the original advocates of no scouting of rival teams, has come to bat with a new plan, that of community singing for his grid squad.

Prof. Earl L. Baker of the Lawrence Conservatory has been selected to lead the Blue grid squad in a session of singing each afternoon, with popular songs, many of which will be "request numbers" by the players, as the program. Coach Catlin believes that the song-fests will help the morale of his boys by keeping them in good spirits, so the voices of husky six footers will be heard above the confines of Whiting field this fall.

Formerly the players "discarded" happily in the showers and locker rooms after the practice on the popular songs of the day and now they will do the same together under direction. If it helps them as much as praying did, it will have no reason to regret the step. Perhaps candidates for the blue club may even add much-needed numbers to the grid squad by coming out to get their early training.

FORMER PLAYER BACK
Brooks, a Lawrence college gridman of a few years back, who since has played two years at a leading state normal school, will return this fall and he has notified the Blue member that he will turn out for the squad. He is a husky lad and should be a welcome addition.

VALLEY SPORTS CHATTER

Eddie Kotal, former Lawrence college star, again is to perform with the Green Bay Packers. This will be Eddie's third year with the Badger state champions. Kotal could star for the Bay city club. Kotal is keeping in shape for football by playing ball in the Wisconsin Valley circuit.

The annual tournament of the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association gets under way at the Oshkosh country club on Thursday. Finals are scheduled for Saturday. According to Secretary Carroll, this year's links classic will easily break the "peak" entry mark for the N. E. W. association.

Wisconsin university graduates in this part of the state are receiving their applications for tickets to the Badger football games. As usual, tickets to the varsity games will probably be in great demand. The future fray on the Oshkosh campus is scheduled with the Michigan Wolverines Saturday, Oct. 15.

The Green Bay Columbus club is going to stage an aquatic carnival on the Fox river Friday, Aug. 26. It is expected that some of the best divers and mermen in Northeastern Wisconsin will compete in the affair. Entry blanks will be issued soon. Athletic Director Cahoon is in charge of the meet.

One of these days Schell, the Kimberly initial sack guard, will wake up to the fact that it doesn't pay to argue with the umpires. Schell told Umpire Sweeney what he thought of him after being called out on a third strike and as a result he witnessed the remainder of the game from the bench.

Kaukauna's cup of joy is running over these days as its Valley loop entry pulled the unexpected and sent Appleton home on the short end of an 11-9 score. One victory over the local team makes up for a dozen defeats, at least that is the way that the Kaukauna fans figure their baseball.

NORTHERN BARBERS BEAT SIXTH WARDS

The Hotel Northern Barbers had little trouble whipping the Sixth Ward Homebrewers in softball game Monday evening at the Sixth ward grounds by a score of 5-2. Lutz and Bowers formed the Barber battery.

Buttes Des Morts Harder To Play Than Pronounce

Madison—(P)—Tournament time calls to Wisconsin golfers as the climax of the season draws near.

Already women golfers are setting their annual disputes for supremacy, and among weeks will find the men's clubs clubbing about various courses in quest of titles and prestige.

Entries for the state amateur tournament at Appleton, Aug. 1 to 5, closed Wednesday and a good representation of "simon pure" golfers will be on hand for the open tournament of the state will be held here Aug. 21 to 22 and this meet is expected to bring out the best golf of the season.

The state affairs, however, do not complete the tournament list for 1927, since numerous private club meets, as well as municipal tournaments have been in progress during the summer months and many more are scheduled for August and early September.

Amateur golfers will play over the Butte des Morts course at Appleton, a course that is harder to play than to pronounce. Cuts, gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded winners. The players will low gross

OSHKOSH, APPLETON TO CLASH HERE ON SUNDAY

A transfer of playing cities brings the Oshkosh ball club, holding the notch above Appleton by the skin of its teeth, to Brandt park for a Fox River Valley League game Sunday. Appleton was to play at Oshkosh but the same has been transferred because of work on the Oshkosh grounds, according to the local management. It is understood that a double header may be played as the teams still have a postponed game that was called off for a second time because of rain when it was called for a Saturday.

START PLANS FOR VALLEY SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT SOON

Many Local Independent Squads Complicate Matters; Call Meeting Soon

Plans for the second annual Fox river softball tournament will be started early next week by officials of the first meet, held last fall. Les Smith, manager of the Appleton American legion team, 1926 city and valley champions, now is president of the tournament.

Last year the meet was tried for the first time and it was a success. Four cities, Neenah, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Appleton entered teams, with the local squad winning in a tough battle with the K-C crew. A team may be made up of the championship squad of the city or of mostly members of this squad and a few outstanding men of the other teams as a reward for their play during the year. The local legion squad used the latter method last year.

A new complication this year is the number of independent teams in Appleton, all of which are good squads and many of which declare that they can trounce the "champs" of the Twilight loop. In order to clear this up, a meeting is called in the near future, not only will managers of teams in nearby cities be invited but also managers of all Appleton teams who are interested and unless some sort of combination is effected, a city series may be necessary. Plans to enter a team last year, but which were not entered, are being entered, it is hoped for several more this year, possibly eight. Fond du Lac desired to enter a team last year, but the distance and the fact that its application came after everything was set to go, ruled it out. It will be given real consideration this year, as promised. Other cities where the game now is exceedingly popular and which are expected to apply for places in the 1927 meet are New London, Menasha, Oshkosh and possibly Little Chute.

BELOIT GOLF VETERAN WOMAN MEET MEDALIST

Madison—(P)—A veteran of the links captured medalist honors in the qualifying round of the annual Wisconsin Women's Golf championship Tuesday when Mrs. G. A. Cleophas of Beloit turned in a card of 84 to lead a large field, including Miss Doris Page, Madison, Western women's champion, who was two strokes behind.

Miss Page took third place being led by Mrs. K. F. Pierson of the Milwaukee Country club, who was second in the qualifying round by virtue of an 85 for the Milwaukee Country club course over which the battle for the state championship started Wednesday in earnest.

A high standard of golf was established in the qualifying round. The highest score turned in was 150, and more than 75 per cent played under 120. One hundred was the high qualifying score and the end of the day saw three women tied for two places. Mrs. Otto Falk, Jr., Milwaukee, and Mrs. E. J. B. Schubert, Madison, won the coveted positions.

While Demand and Reetz worked for the losers. Features of the game were the long-distance slugging of Kunitz, Barber first baseman, and the fielding of Pankratz, Barber outfielder.

The St. Louis Browns have yet to win a ball game from the Yankees this year. Miller Huggins' outfit Tuesday laid the Browns low in two games. The Huggins team took the opener by a 15-1 count and then pointed out a 12-3 victory. The Yankees have won 13 games in succession from the St. Louis team.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig started their home run derby whirling again. The Bambino belted one of Gaston's balls out of the lot in his first inning of the opening and found another in the sixth to his liking. Ruth's wallop brought this season's total to 33 but Gehrig connected for his 32nd in the wind-up contest.

Cleveland trimmed Boston 7-2. Both teams scored all their runs in the third inning.

The Athletics and the Detroit Tigers split a double header at Philadelphia. Detroit won the first game 10-4 and the Marksmen the second, 5-2.

The Washington Senators returned to their home grounds and won a twin bill from Chicago, 5-1 and 6-5. The second game went 11 innings.

Pittsburgh went into a tie with the Chicago Cubs for first place in the National League when they defeated Brooklyn, 6-5.

Cincinnati made a four straight from the Cardinals and increased their winning streak to six games by winning, 11-10. The Cubs were idle, preparatory to opening up their home stand Wednesday against New York.

BONINI BUTCHERS WIN FROM VOECKS MARKET
The Bonini softball team came back strong Monday evening after losing last week's game in the Butchers Twelfth loop and covered the Voecks market crew with a score of 10-0.

Nabholz and Christian formed the winning battery and Sorenson and Jacobs worked for the losers. The Boninis hold the loop lead with six wins and one defeat, the solitary loss coming last week.

WEEK'S GAMES

Tuesday—Post-Crescent 1, Brandts 0.
Wednesday—Co. D vs Civics Club.
Friday—Legion vs Badger Printers.

With the usual "razzberry chorus" conspicuous by its absence with one exception, and he too busy keeping score to do much shouting, the Post-Crescent squad finally pulled itself together and by playing bangup ball defeated the Brandt Co. squad, 1-0. Tuesday afternoon at Jones park. It was the second one-point win for the newspaper men over the Fords and the second 1-0 game the Sternardmen played, losing the other to the Badger Printers.

BANKS BEAT CIVICS
Monday the Bankers outplayed the Civics Club squad to win, 5-2, in a postponed game. The consistent and sensational fielding of Heiden, Bank flyhawk, featured. The win coupled with the Brands loss Tuesday moved the Bankers from fifth to fourth and a virtual tie for third with the Legion, .007 ahead. The Brands dropped to fifth a half game above the P-C crew.

Tuesday's battle was a classy hurler's duel between Lautenschlager of the losers and Wagner of the winners, and their fine control allowed only one walk, that to R. Wentzlaff of the winners. Both were backed by great support, with the P-C men making but one error and the losers three, only one of which counted for anything.

Lautenschlager allowed four hits and Wagner three, but not more than one in a single frame and none more than one-bagger. Hartzell led batters of both squads with two hits. Bentle and R. Wentzlaff garnered the other P-C drives and Haderacker, Hartzheim and Krueger hit for the losers.

The winning run came in the fifth and had baserunning left another. Hartzell opened the frame with a single and stole second. When an infielder muffed Wagner's drive and it went to the outfield, he attempted to score and was thrown out at the plate. Wagner tagged second. Wagner stole third and scored on a passed ball.

The best opportunity for the losers came in the ninth and it looked like extra innings. Krueger opened with a hit and stole second. Haderacker fanned and John popped after Krueger had stolen second. Krueger was held to third on the out. He attempted to piff home but as he was on the way Powers hit the ball and was out by a step in first. Another chance in the sixth with a man on second with one out also was halted by snappy fielding.

LOU, BABE RESUME DUEL AS YANKS WIN
Sluggers Aid Champs to Take 13th in Row from Browns; Bucs Tie Cubs

The St. Louis Browns have yet to win a ball game from the Yankees this year. Miller Huggins' outfit Tuesday laid the Browns low in two games. The Huggins team took the opener by a 15-1 count and then pointed out a 12-3 victory. The Yankees have won 13 games in succession from the St. Louis team.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig started their home run derby whirling again. The Bambino belted one of Gaston's balls out of the lot in his first inning of the opening and found another in the sixth to his liking. Ruth's wallop brought this season's total to 33 but Gehrig connected for his 32nd in the wind-up contest.

Cleveland trimmed Boston 7-2. Both teams scored all their runs in the third inning.

The Athletics and the Detroit Tigers split a double header at Philadelphia. Detroit won the first game 10-4 and the Marksmen the second, 5-2.

The Washington Senators returned to their home grounds and won a twin bill from Chicago, 5-1 and 6-5. The second game went 11 innings.

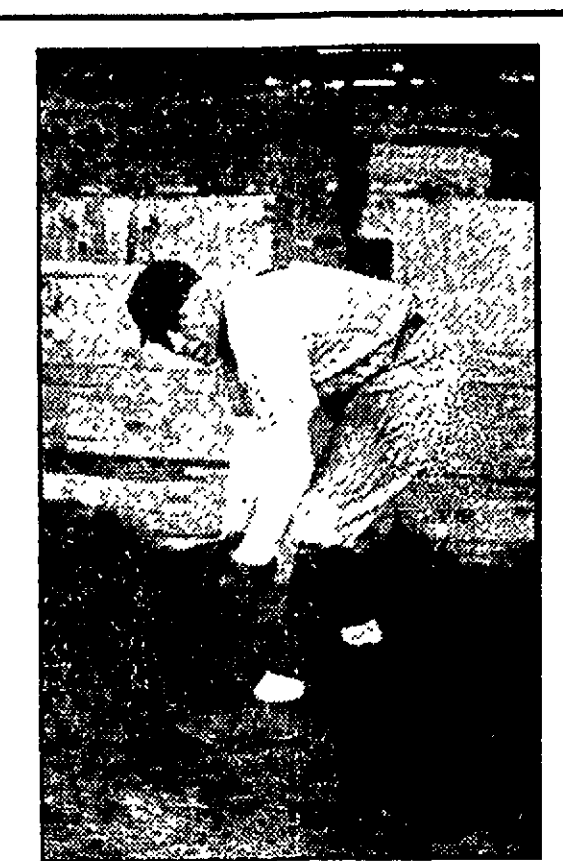

Pittsburgh went into a tie with the Chicago Cubs for first place in the National League when they defeated Brooklyn, 6-5.

Cincinnati made a four straight from the Cardinals and increased their winning streak to six games by winning, 11-10. The Cubs were idle, preparatory to opening up their home stand Wednesday against New York.

At least one man on the Appleton ball club can pick the offerings of Kaukauna's moundsmen hard and that man is Son Tornow, second sack-flyhawk, featured. The win coupled with the Brands loss Tuesday moved the Bankers from fifth to fourth and a virtual tie for third with the Legion, .007 ahead. The Brands dropped to fifth a half game above the P-C crew.

Rollie Barnum Returns To Alma Mater As Coach

Madison—(P)—Rollie Barnum, three sport star at the University of Wisconsin and winner of nine athletic awards, will be an assistant coach in football, basketball and baseball at his alma mater beginning in the fall.

The former Evansville, athlete has been signed by university athletic officials to lend a hand in drilling the three sport candidates at the Badger institution for the year 1927-28.

Barnum completed his collegiate athletic career this spring, playing half back on the gridiron team, playing basketball for the varsity and baseball for the varsity. He was a member of the varsity basketball team for three years, guard on the basketball team for a like number of seasons and catching on the ball team during his sophomore, junior and senior years.

In addition to his coaching duties, he will probably be a student in the medical school.

Rollie will work under a new coach when the football season gets underway, Glenn Thistlethwaite, former Northwestern coach, having taken over the reins at Wisconsin. Through-out Barnum's career, he worked under George Little, present athletic director.

It is probable that Barnum will devote most of his time to back field men, drilling them in kicking and blocking, both departments being especially familiar to the sturdy blonde.

On the hard court, Rollie will join hands with Dr. Walter Meanwell, one of the best basketball coaches in the country. For three years Barnum has been receiving instruction from the "Little Giant" and frequently was named as all-conference guard.

When spring rolls around again and candidates for Guy Lowman's ball team start tossing baseballs on Camp Randall field, Barnum will be on hand to help direct activities. His three years of conference baseball, all of them behind the bat, combined with experience gained with the Madison Blues this summer, should make him a valuable assistant.

Barnum's winning of nine letters has been duplicated once at the university and that by Rollie Williams, hero of an earlier day and now coach at Iowa. The official announcement of Barnum's signing is expected Wednesday. The addition will give Wisconsin one of the strongest coaching staffs in the Big Ten.

SPENCER NEW HEAD OF WESTERN SCHOOL

Former Lawrence Journalism Teacher Becomes President of U. of Washington

Dr. M. Lyle Spencer, professor of English and journalism at Lawrence college about ten years ago, has been elected president of the University of Washington, according to a dispatch from Seattle. Dr. Spencer was dean of journalism there and he succeeds Dr. Henry Suzzallo, whose discharge by Gov. Roland H. Hartley seven months ago caused a nationwide protest among educators and threatened a controversy in the convention of the National Education association in Seattle a week ago.

Dr. Spencer is credited with organizing Lawrence school of journalism. He married Miss Helen McNaughton of this city in 1920. Dr. Spencer was born in Batesville, Miss., and received degrees from Kentucky Wesleyan, Northwestern and the University of Chicago. He also lectured at the University of Wisconsin on Journalism.

A few years ago while Dr. Spencer and his family were on their way to Appleton and vicinity for a visit, their train was derailed into a river at Chippewa Falls. Dr. and Mrs. Spencer were saved but their small child was drowned.

the district to increase business also will be discussed.

The convention at Estes Park this year will be the largest ever held by the Franklin Life Insurance Co. It is said a delegation will attend from this district. It is expected, and plans will be made by those who intend to go at the meeting. The annual picnic also will be planned at this meeting. The picnic is usually near Green Bay and all those insured by the Franklin are invited to attend.

Use Of Spring, Well Water By Campers Termed Dangerous

Madison—Clear and attractive road-side spring water is not a guaranty of purity. Unprotected springs may be contaminated with surface waters. Campers should use care in drinking water from unprotected springs.

"Wisconsin has a low typhoid rate because it uses every effort to keep its water supplies pure," says the health committee bulletin of the State Medical Society.

DECEIVING APPEARANCES

"The water of upland streams and unprotected roadside springs and wells

may be clear, cool and attractive, but the sanitary quality of water cannot be judged by its appearance. The water of shallow wells and sandy springs is derived from rain water falling upon the adjacent area. This water percolates slowly through the soil and enters the wells or springs. The coarse solids, which cause cloudiness in surface water are removed as the water filters through the soil, but the very small bacteria are not all removed unless the soil is fine and the distance traversed by the water is great. Surface water will enter springs and wells unless they are protected by suitable watertight enclosures or by watertight curbing and covers. Seepage from cesspools will mingle with the rain water entering and flowing through the soil and thus general pollution of nearby ground water occurs.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HITS POSTAL SCHEDULE

A systematic effort to bring about a complete overhauling of the post office department bookkeeping and revision of postal rates is foreshadowed in a communication on the subject received by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The letter was sent to 1,500 organization members of the chamber by its national president, L. E. Pierson, New York.

It is asserted on the part of the national chamber that with a business-like accounting system the postoffice department, instead of showing an operating deficit of more than $37,000,000, would show a surplus.

The apparent deficit, it is explained, is due to the fact that the government charges against the department all the free and less-than-cost services which are a part of governmental policy.

By following the course of attempting to make commercial mail pay not only the costs incurred in handling it but a portion of the deficit incurred in the handling of free and less-than-cost mail, it is asserted, rates on revenue producing mail have been pushed so high as to become unjustifiably burdensome to the public with which it originates. Following business practice, it is contended, cost free and policy services should be charged against the general treasury instead of being saddled upon mail users.

The cost of living in England is lower than a year ago.

DO NOT USE WELL WATER

"Springs issuing from crevices in rocks and drilled wells penetrating impervious layers of soil to lower water-bearing strata may be protected from local pollution but this is not always true. If they are located in limestone regions, the open channels in such rock may communicate with sinkholes, cesspools and other nearby or distant sources of pollution.

"Many factors make it difficult for tourists to know the real quality of the water from a spring or well. It is therefore recommended that they refrain from using roadside water supplies and that drinking water be secured from the public water supplies of villages and cities.

"The motto 'Safety First' should be applied to drinking water supplies as well as to grade crossings. The type of bacillus blows no whistle, yet it is no less deadly than the rushing locomotive."

33,000 GROWTH IN BADGER POPULATION

Bureau of Census Says Wisconsin Now Has 2,918,000 Inhabitants

Washington, D. C. — Wisconsin gained approximately 33,000 in population in the fiscal year ending June 30, according to census estimates announced today by the Bureau of the Census.

According to these calculations the state now has a population of 2,918,000 as compared with 2,885,000 a year ago and 2,632,967 in 1920.

The figures which are calculated once a year by the bureau are based on the average gain for the state during the ten years from 1910 to 1920. The accuracy of these is often wrong, especially in this decade on account of the unusual growth of some sections during and after the reconstruction period of the World war. For the state as a whole, however, they usually give a fairly accurate, though conservative estimate of the gains being made from year to year.

NO DEMAND FOR CITY GARBAGE COLLECTORS

No queries for city garbage collectors have been made at the city hall this year according to E. L. Williams, city clerk. Most local people have private collectors and have no desire to have the garbage collection made a city project, he said.

Two years ago the administration inserted a public notice in the Appleton Post-Crescent for two weeks asking people who wanted to have a city collection to notify the city clerk. About 15 responses were received. Since that time there has been no movement to have city collectors so far as he knows, he stated.

The plan at that time was to charge 50 cents a month to people wanting the collection. This is the same charge that is made by private collectors.

The Eveready Hour Group in "DOWN SOUTH"

A Sparkling Orchestra
A Glorious Blending of Voices

Victor Record No. 35823

Here's the first Victor Record by this famous radio group of singers with the orchestra. The song is an old favorite with concert companies, at first the full chorus singing, then an orchestral interlude. Don't fail to hear this splendid record—today!

Be sure to hear "At Sundown" and "C'est Vous" — two of the latest hits.

JACK LOCKWILL'S POLICE DOG

Jack was flung backward across the old stove and pinned there, helpless, by the enraged ruffian. "I'll roast you alive!" shouted Benton, madness in his eyes. Then, realizing there was no fire in the stove, he grabbed the iron cover-lifter and struck the boy on the head. With his senses slipping away, Jack bent his arms over his head to fend off the following blows.

The door of the hut was opened suddenly by a tattered, unshaven man who stepped in and reclosed the door behind him. "What's this?" he cried.

"What ails you, Mal Dugan?" snarled the chauffeur. "This young sneak followed me here, and he slugged your Molly and knocked her stiff." "That was an accident," declared the girl, rising weakly. "But he's a spy, Molly," said her father. "We've got to do somethin' with him." "Finish him!" urged Benton.

LITTLE JOE

THE NUT CRACKER

The perfect title for the Wills-Palino fight ... The Brown Panther's Last Pant.

Popular fallacy, usually cherished by annoying wives, is that a man can get as much physical good from weeding a garden as from playing 18 holes of golf.

Professional athletes aren't the only ones who have a tough time keeping in good shape. There are professional bathing beauties.

That low plaintive melody you hear floating in from the west is San Johnson at the zither knocking out "All Alone."

SEVENTY NINE YEAR OLD TOWN CLERK IS STILL ON THE JOB

Carl Ludwig of Greenville
May Retire After This Term,
Rumor

Greenville — Carl Ludwig, 79-year-old town clerk of Greenville, may retire on expiration of his present term of office, after having been in public service for 33 years. Mr. Ludwig served 33 years as a member of the school board of his district, 32 years as member of the town board and 23 years as town clerk.

When Mr. Ludwig reached the age of 64 he was defeated in a campaign for reelection on the ground that he was too old to serve longer in public office. At the age of 69 years, he was elected again on account of his experience and the tender years of the rival candidate and held the office ten consecutive years. He is now in office at the age of 79 years and is not considered too old to give prompt, satisfactory service. This record of public service made by Mr. Ludwig can not be duplicated by any other public servant in Outagamie county.

In 1891, Mr. Ludwig was elected clerk of the town of Greenville the first time. As selling farm machinery disqualified him to hold that office, he served only one year.

Giving up the machinery business after one year, Mr. Ludwig was elected again to the same office in 1893. After this election, he served four years. At the close of this term, his defeat for reelection came as a result of driving an agent for men's clothing about the county.

As a penalty of his second official indiscretion, Mr. Ludwig was out of office for two years. But in 1896, he was again elected and served six years, until 1902. He was defeated that year on the grounds that he was too old to serve his constituents in office, at the age of sixty-four. In one stretch, he then remained out of office five years.

On account of his excellent official record and the inexperience of the rival candidate, Mr. Ludwig was elected to office again in 1917 and has held the office without a break since that election. Before the nominating caucus preceding his last induction to office was held, he received several invitations from admirers to attend the caucus. "I have no business there as I am too old to hold office," Mr. Ludwig replied to the invitation. Finally consenting, he attended the caucus and was nominated by acclamation for the office of town clerk. His election followed the nomination.

STUDENTS' NEWSPAPER HAS PUBLISHING HOUSE

Madison—(AP)—The Daily Cardinal, student newspaper of the University of Wisconsin, will soon begin printing its own editions. To date they have been printed by local papers, recently the Capital Times, under contract.

Operated by the students of the state school, with the help of a faculty advisory board, the newspaper is sold by a non-stock non-profit corporation. Wise investments of the returns have enabled the governing board to purchase a plant and a new newspaper press with a capacity of 3,500 papers.

MOTORISTS VIOLATE CITY TRAFFIC LAWS

Only 70 Per Cent of Autoists
Are Complying With Regulations

Seventy per cent of the automobiles operated during an hour's time on Cherry-st were regulated by the traffic rules of the city and the remaining 30 per cent violated the regulations, according to a survey made Saturday by Alderman Mike Steinhauer and Alderman Pliny Earle of the street and bridges committee of the city council.

Drivers in big cities make sure their tail lights are right, follow traffic signs, and abide by parking rules, but in Appleton they don't bother with the regulations, Mr. Steinhauer said. The reason why there are fewer accidents per capita in Chicago than in smaller cities is because in Chicago motorists abide by traffic regulations, he believed.

The aisles painted with yellow to direct traffic at the intersection of Cherry-st and W. College-ave are not followed, Mr. Steinhauer continued. Drivers going west should use the left aisle to turn to Cherry-st, and the right aisle if the driver wishes to continue west.

Drivers don't watch for the safety

zones, the alderman stated. These zones have been placed to safeguard pedestrians and should not inconvenience drivers of automobiles. Slow down signs are not heeded, Mr. Steinhauer said. New "slow" signs have been placed at Richmond and Drew-sts, but the local drivers are careless about obeying these warnings. Instead of stopping behind the crossings at Onelda-st and College-ave, motorists go on so far they cannot see the red and green lights, he maintained. Often a driver will park his car between two aisles marked on College-ave, thus taking away parking space for another car. The aisles are marked so that space will be allowed as many machines as possible, he stated. It is because these traffic rules and regulations are being neglected by drivers that the streets are unnecessarily dangerous, Mr. Steinhauer said.

CRABS, BEER AND PRETZELS BECOME FAVORITES AGAIN

Green Bay—(AP)—Crabs, favored free lunch food of pre-prohibition times, are coming back.

When beer was ordered out, the crawfish market slumped, but fish dealers here report the demand for the water creatures has increased greatly this season.

Formerly an integral part of the beer and pretzel combination, the tiny crabs were boiled in salt water and dill, and the taste served to inspire a thirst. Soft drink parlors are taking most of the catch, but the animals find a new partner in near beer.

Fishermen spend much of their time lifting crab boxes now because the warm weather and warm water makes the crabs plentiful.
